"The Best Fantasy Camps Have to Offer"

Keith Swenson of the Mariner Mooses sends Ken Scott of the Babitt Smackers back to the bench.

Babitt Smackers keep on smackin'

The Babitt Smackers juggernaut rolled on Tuesday in Oakland A's/Seattle Mariners Fantasy Camp play. The Smackers, managed by Dallas Braden and Bobby Crosby remained undefeated as they handled the Mariners Mooses 13-1 in the morning, then blasted The Hendu's 17-1 in the afternoon. They take a 3-0 record into Monday play.

Earlier, The Hendu's, managed by Shooty Babitt and Bert Campaneris, squeezed out a narrow 11-9 win over SFS, managed by Keith Comstock and Brian Holman. In the second afternoon game, the Mooses, managed by Mike Moore and Gary Wheelock, were edged 6-3 by Dave Stewart's and Greg Cadaret's Mesa-holics.

The Mesa-holics and The Hendu's are tied for second place at 2-1. The Mooses are 1-3, and SFS remains winless at 0-3.

Sean Finn had a big day at the plate for the Smackers, going a combined five for nine with five RBI. Bruce Fraser was five for seven for the day with 5 RBI. The father-son pitching combination of Bruce and Bryce Fraser combined for five innings of work against the Hendu's allowing one run on four hits with four strikeouts.

The Mooses hung in with the Smackers in the morning game trailing only 3-1 after four innings. The wheels fell off in the seventh, though, as the Smacker exploded for eight runs. Gene Feikert and Steve Lehmann limited the Mooses to a single run on seven hits. The Mooses pitching staff finally came together in the afternoon game against the Mesa-Holics. Bob Christilaw threw three innings allowing only a single unearned run on three hits while striking out three. Dave Curbow took over and limited the Mesa Holics to a pair of unearned runs on no hits, with a single strikeouts.

The game remained tied at 3-3 going into the seventh when the Holics broke through with a pair of runs. Holics closer Matt Langseth shut down the Mooses the rest of the way.

SFS put together its strongest outing so far. They led The Hendu's 3-1 going into the fourth. The Hendu's broke through with five runs in the fourth frame, but SFS regained the lead with three runs of their own. They scored another three in the sixth, but the Hendu's had put the game beyond reach with four in the fifth and another in the sixth.

Jason Southard was three for three with a pair of RBI for SFS. He also pitched three innings allowing a single earned run as the SFS starter. For the Hendu's Neil McConnell was three for three and Cory Geddes three for four at the plate.
